The Art Gallery of Regina is proud to present "The Next Generation" an exhibition that explores the diverse and dynamic art scene in Saskatchewan. The exhibition brings together works by a group of young artists who are pushing the boundaries of contemporary art and challenging conventional notions of what art can be. Their work reflects the unique social, cultural, and political contexts that shape their experiences and perspectives.

The Next Generation exhibition is a collaborative effort that involves artists, curators, and the Gallery's education and outreach programs. It is a testament to the Gallery's commitment to supporting and promoting emerging artists, and to its role as a cultural hub for the province.

The exhibition showcases a range of artistic practices and media, from painting and sculpture to textile and digital art. Visitors can explore the diverse approaches and perspectives of the artists featured, and engage with the themes that are central to their work.
